The Connected Furniture Styles software application helps you to identify the style of your antique and reproduction furniture through custom furniture profiles that you create.

Using the Connected Furniture Styles you will be able to:

1. Identify the antique furniture style
2. Research and compare nineteen furniture styles
3. Understand each style's distinctive components
4. Build your own unique furniture profiles
5. Create detailed analysis reports of your antique and reproduction furniture.

How to Create a Furniture Profile

Using the Connected Furniture Styles software application, you can build and compare profiles for any piece of antique or reproduction furniture to nineteen historic furniture styles.

In this example, we will be creating a profile for the chair on the right.

This chair has the following components:

- Ball and claw foot
- Decorated cabriole leg
- Leather seat
- Trapezoid shaped seat
- Pierced splat back

To create the profile:

1. Select File and New Profile, or click the New Profile button.
2. Expand Decoration by clicking the + in the box next to Decoration in the left pane.
3. Under Decoration, expand Foot, and select Ball and Claw. A check mark will appear in the box next to Ball and Claw and the score pane on the right will show four matching styles.
4. Expand Leg, and select Decorated Cabriole. The score pane on the right will reflect the refined style identification.
5. Expand Material and Seat, and select Leather.
6. Expand Shape and Chair Back, and select Pierced Splat.
7. Under Shape, expand Leg and select Curved.
8. Under Shape, expand Seat and select Trapezoid.
9. Select the Profile Report tab to view, print, and save reports on each of the matching furniture styles.

The Connected Furniture Styles software application correctly identifies the example chair as being of the Chippendale style. Detailed reports on how well the chair's profile matches each of the furniture styles is available on the Profile Report tab where you can also save and edit your own personal copy the reports.
